The goal of Arizona Indians into Medicine is to recruit, support, and encourage Native American students to enter and succeed in the health professions at the U of A. They help with all health professions including medicine, nursing, dentistry, veterinary science, and allied health fields. They provide a range of services to help students in their academic and professional pursuits including a lot of networking events, lectures/presentations, clinical placements, resume/interviewing assistance, academic advising, counseling, and social activities. They can help with understanding career pathways into various health professions, how to apply to various programs, etc. Assistance and programming is available to community college and high school students.
